

Call for Board Members of Chinese Economic Association (CEA, UK/Europe)

The Chinese Economic Association (CEA, UK/Europe), founded in 1988, is an independent, not-for-profit research association of scholars, researchers, students and business executives concerned with China's economic development. Its objectives are to advance the knowledge of the general public about economic development in China, and to promote and publish research on the Chinese economy. CEA publishes the Journal of Chinese Economic and Business Studies, which has an impact factor of 2.4. The current president of CEA is Professor Zhifu Mi from University College London.

CEA is now inviting outstanding individuals with academic leadership and dedication to join its Board to help further the association's development and academic influence. Board members will play a crucial role in the association's strategic planning, major decision-making, and event organization.

Board Member Requirements:

- A strong passion for the association's mission and objectives.
- Full-time employment in Europe or the UK.
- A title of Associate Professor or higher.
- A background in economics, management, or related disciplines.

Board Member Responsibilities:

- Attend Board meetings and contribute actively to the association's strategic planning and decision-making.
- Hold the association's annual conference and/or other academic events to promote academic exchange and collaboration.
- Promote the association actively, increasing its visibility and influence within the academic community and related fields.
